This charming three-bedroom Edwardian end-of-terrace house is situated in a popular residential area of Chalfont St Peter, offering a well-balanced combination of character and practical living space. The property retains a number of period features and includes several appealing aspects, notably a bright and comfortable living room with a bay window overlooking the garden and allowing for plenty of natural light. The kitchen/dining room is neatly arranged, providing a functional space for both everyday living and entertaining, complemented by a separate utility room. In addition, there is a music studio and a sauna, offering useful and versatile extra space to suit a range of needs. Upstairs, there are three well-proportioned, tastefully decorated bedrooms, along with a modern family bathroom. Outside, the property benefits from an elevated, south-facing landscaped garden, well stocked with plant life and offering an enjoyable space for all the family.
