The main entrance opens into the hallway, with beautiful original-style wooden flooring continuing through the ground floor. The front reception room is an attractive lounge that retains an abundance of period character, including high ceilings, detailed coving and ceiling roses. There is also a period fireplace and a large front-facing window with shutter blinds, providing both plenty of natural light and privacy.

The second reception room is a particularly generous kitchen/dining room. The kitchen is well-appointed, with most appliances integrated, whilst the fridge-freezer is freestanding. A rear extension has created additional space within the dining area and allows for a skylight which brings further natural light into the room. Beautiful bi-folding doors open directly onto the rear garden, creating a lovely open feel and providing an excellent space for entertaining and socialising, particularly during the summer months.

To the first floor, the landing retains the period character of the property. The bathroom is a substantial room with windows providing plenty of natural light. It is well-presented with white tiling and benefits from an enclosed shower, bath, wash hand basin and WC facilities.

There are two very good-sized bedrooms. The substantial main bedroom is positioned to the front and benefits from high ceilings, attractive coving and large windows. The second bedroom is slightly smaller but comfortably accommodates a double bed, with plenty of additional space for storage.

There is also potential for a future owner to extend into the attic space and create additional accommodation, as a number of properties on the street have already undertaken similar works. This could provide an option for buyers looking to expand their family in the future.

Externally, the property benefits from a rear garden accessed directly from the dining kitchen through the bi-folding doors, providing a useful outdoor area and an excellent extension of the entertaining space.
